MATTER EXPUNGED FROM RECORDS

No Further References to Charges Growing Out of Mrs. Young's Election.

HARMONY NOW PREVAILS

National Education Association Seeks to Satisfy All Parties.

Chicago, Ill., July 9.—Open charges that at the convention at Boston two years ago, when Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of Chicago schools, was elected president, the schools were "retained," that teachers were enrolled as active members, credited from Chicago schools, when they lived in other states, and that their dues were paid by Chicago principals to insure more votes for Mrs. Young, were voted upon by the National Education Association today.

The board of directors adopted unanimously a resolution that all reference to the charges should be "expunged from the records, without imputing the motives or impeaching the character of any one."

It was the intention that the whole subject should be wiped out of future discussion, and speeches were made that "the utmost harmony now prevails in the association and that it was the sense of the meeting that no conscious wrong entered into the election of Mrs. Young." At the same time it was declared that Secretary Irwin Sheppard, who made the charges, was not guilty of any misstatement when he referred to the violation of certain technicalities at the Boston election.

Secretary Sheppard today attempted to sustain his charges. He asserted that before the Boston convention an organization known as the Chicago Principals' Club, set out to promote Mrs. Young's candidacy. He charged that many persons were enrolled as active members credited from Chicago schools, when in fact they lived in other states and were not connected with Chicago schools. Altogether, he asserted, eighty-six votes were obtained from persons who had been thus enrolled. He quoted letters from Milwaukee and New Orleans, in which persons, whose names were withheld, professed to have been paid by Chicago teachers for joining as active members and voting for Mrs. Young.

William B. Owen, principal of the Chicago Teachers' College; Miss Ida Mitchell and Ella Q. Goe, Chicago school principals, asserted that the Chicago teachers did furnish some money to pay the dues of active members, and that some of the active members thus made did live in other states. They denied, however, that the members were credited to Chicago schools, and said there had been no intention of committing fraud.

It finally was agreed that the discussion should cease, and on motion of James V. Joyner, of Raleigh, N. C., it was unanimously decided that the matter be expunged from the records.

MORE PRACTICAL POLITICS DESIRED

Appeal in Prohibition Party for Less Energy in "Howling for Church Vote."

CONVENTION HALL, ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 9.—A

presidential nomination boom based on a new issue that would substitute practical politics for "church politics" in the prohibition movement was started here tonight at the eve of the Prohibition National Convention. Finley C. Hendrickson, of Cumberland, Md., was launched as a candidate for the prohibition presidential nomination by the Maryland delegation, which will appeal for his selection as the party standard bearer on a broad platform, especially urging that there be more earnest appeal for votes outside the churches, and that less of the energy of the party be expended in "howling for the church vote."

Mr. Hendrickson, who is a member of the Prohibition Party Executive Committee, is a strong advocate of more practical politics in the prohibition movement. The Maryland delegation appointed a special convention campaign committee to urge Mr. Hendrickson's nomination, the committee being headed by Edwin Higgins, of Baltimore. The entrance in the presidential race of Mr. Hendrickson probably will result in the elimination of Joshua Leveering, of Baltimore, prohibition presidential candidate in 1906, who had been mentioned as a probability this time. His friends asserted today that he did not wish his name to go before the convention.

Another tangible boom for the party ticket was depreciated at a reception to the delegates today, when the Massachusetts delegation arrived with friends and banners proclaiming "Chaffin and Watkins for 1912." The party ticket in 1903, Eugene W. Chaffin, of Illinois, was the presidential nominee and Aaron S. Watkins, vice-presidential nominee in the preceding campaign, and many are urging their re-nomination. At the present time Hendrickson and Chaffin are the leading presidential candidates.

Nearly a thousand delegates to the convention had arrived to-night and Music Hall on the steel pier will be taxed to its capacity when National Chairman Charles R. Jones calls the convention to order to-morrow morning and presents Clinton Howard, of Rochester, as the national committee's selection for temporary chairman. Dr. Samuel Dickey, Professor at Alhambra College, is talked of to-night as the probable permanent chairman of the convention.

MAY TAKE RECESS UNTIL OCTOBER

Washington, July 9.—There is considerable talk here about Congress taking a recess until late in the fall, probably the early part of October.

This discussion has been brought about because of the knowledge that a large amount of legislation is still on the House and Senate calendars unattended to and the almost impossibility of maintaining a quorum in either body.

As they expected, it was difficult to get members to come back to Washington and give serious attention to matters of legislation after the demoralizing effects of two conventions following immediately after each other. Practically three weeks devoted to selecting the nominees of the two parties placed members in a frame of mind where they found it hard to adjust themselves again to the slow and uninteresting grind of daily legislation, especially under a torrid sun beating down mercilessly from above.

After the conventions, many members of both the House and Senate found it advisable to go home to mend up broken fences and drive in a few political nails here and there. Some of these have not returned, and the result is that both Vice-President Sherman and Speaker Clark are frequently placed in embarrassing positions because they have no quorum with which to transact business in their respective houses. This situation has resulted in the talk about a recess. It is not unlikely that such a course will be followed. On the other hand, the legislative wheels will slowly grind along. House and Senate conferees will little by little bring the differences in time passing the necessary appropriation bills; then the leaders will get together, pass a resolution agreeing to quit, and end what in many respects has been one of the most interesting sessions of Congress in the country's history.

A question that has been asked here many times recently while President Taft and his supporters have been casting about to choose a campaign manager for the present fight is: "When is Hitchcock, the Taft manager of four years ago?"

In the presidential fight of 1905, when Bryan and Kern were fighting their way toward the White House against the Taft forces, it was Postmaster-General Francis B. Hitchcock who led the Taft fighters and who kept the Bryan and Kern men at bay. Astute and an excellent leader, Mr. Hitchcock saw his party victorious. With this record behind him it was believed that he would be asked to lead the same forces again but.

Dr. O. S. Owens, was summoned. After careful examination he found it necessary to amputate her arm two inches below the shoulder. The operation was very successful, and the patient is resting quietly.

GOING TIME LIMITED.
President Taft will have to forego much of his golfing during the remainder of the summer, if in fact he has the opportunity of indulging his pastime at all.

In a short time the regular campaign schedule will be mapped out, which will require more speech-making than golf playing between this time and the November election.

With four strenuous months ahead of him—months in many respects the difficult ones of his career—there will be little time for idling. Just enough exercise will be taken by the President to keep himself in good condition and to hold down his weight. Aside from this, business, and plenty of it, will be the order of the day.

Sunny Jim Takes It Easy.
Whatever serious business may confront the President, sunny Jim Hartman is taking things easy. He has made engagements with friends for all the baseball games in Washington for the next month. He does not propose to miss one of them, and so far as the Senate is concerned, that's a matter that can take care of itself when there is a ball game on.

PAINTER AFTER JOHNSON.
At Wants to Sample the Champion Before Going After Title.
Chicago, July 9.—Al Palmer, heavy-weight pugilist, is anxious to meet Jack Johnson in a ten-round battle Labor Day. He talked with Johnson for an hour in regard to the match to-day while en route from his home at Decorah, Ia., to New York.

The champion of the world said he would meet Palmer for a $25,000 purse or a side bet of equal size, either for a five-night or any number of rounds. "I want to meet Johnson in a ten-round bout before I sign for a long contract," said Palmer. "He may out-point me in a short contest, but he could not put me away. I will try to get my friends to back me for a ten-round go with Johnson when I get back to New York."

Palmer is matched to meet Luther McCarthy on July 15 in New York, but unless he gets a substantial guarantee he declares he will call it a bout.
